Contents

Foreword 14
Introduction - Fflur Arwel and Iva Petković 16

1 HISTORY & FEMINISM ON THE PERIPHERIES OF EUROPE 28
1.1 Women, Wales, and Deconstructing Heroism - Angharad Lewis 30
1.2 Feminism and Welsh Home Rule - Jane Aaron 40
1.3 Veneto and Gender Equality: The Relevance of Local (Feminist) History - Stefano Zambon, Anna Iseppon and Giovanni Masarà 52
1.4 Leadership and Feminism in Cornwall - John Tredinnick-Rowe 68

2 INTERSECTIONALITY, COMPLEX IDENTITIES & MINORITIES 80
2.1 Double Discrimination of Women Members of Minorities: The Case of a Slovenian in Carinthia - Lena Kolter 103
2.2 Muslim Women in Wales - Sahar al-Faifi 107
2.3 The Situation of Refugee Women in Europe, the Spanish State and Catalonia: Diagnosis and Gaps for Improvement - Helena Castellà 136
2.4 Let's Talk about Patriarchy, Celebrities, Gender Binaries and Feminism in Aragón - Ingrid Lana and Jara Lascorz Lozano

3 PUBLIC LIFE AND INCLUSIVITY 150
3.1 Gender Mainstreaming Policies in the Catalan Countries: A Gender Perspective in Urban Regeneration Projects - Judit Calvera Casanovas and Max Zahiartu Plaza 152
3.2 Gender Equality in Brittany: Past and Present - Jean-Christophe Cordaillat, Trefina Kerrain and Gwenn Menez 178
3.3 Revolution is Never Final: Gender Pay Gap, Representation and Role Models in Faroe Islands - Guðrun í Jákupsstovu 194
3.4 Feminist Parliamentary Work in the Valencian Country - Marta Sorlí 204
3.5 Revitalising Politics with Women’s Participation in Aosta Valley - Chantal Certan 222

4 SEXISM, MISOGYNY AND HATE SPEECH 230
4.1 Language and Sexism - Mariana Díaz Montiel 232
4.2 Hate Speech, Misogyny and Anti-Feminism In Finland - Taija Roiha and Mia Haglund 248

5 YOUNG WOMEN, FEMINISM & THE FUTURE 262
5.1 Feminism in Silesia: From Scepticism to Strikes and Marches for Reproductive Rights - Marta Bainka and Karolina Rzepezka 264
5.2 Galician Women: Twice Forgotten - Rebeca Cambeiro Graña, Lucía Veciño Souto and Navia Rivas de Castro 280
5.3 A Feminist Perspective on Peace and Self-Determination in the Basque Country - Iria Epalza Markoartu

Bibliography 315
Center Maurits Coppieters 328
Colophon 333
Feminism on the peripheries of Europe

by political actors traditionally not too sympathetic to these ideas, we must leave our comfort zone and begin discussions on issues not always found in nationalism and minority politics but that are an integral part of such movements, such as migration and refugees, feminism and gender issues, and social justice issues. This book, “Feminism on the Peripheries of Europe”, is the result of a conference organised under the same name in Cardiff last June, and the crystallisation of this reflection made by our members.

National and minority politics must focus more on the future than on the past. Without forgetting who we were and why we are here, we should focus less on “us” and increasingly focus on how we can enlarge this “us” with “them”. By “them”, I do not only mean newcomers who have arrived and will continue arriving to Europe and our countries, but also those who have traditionally been reluctant to talk about national identities, minority languages and cultural traditions.

This book represents a small contribution to this ideological update, ensuring that feminism and gender issues become a core element of EFAy’s work program, and making an effort to leave our comfort zones and approach social groups that might not traditionally be identified with national, cultural and minority issues.

Max Zaïnartu Plaza
EFA Youth President

Foreword

Feminism and gender issues have traditionally not been seen as being a part of national and cultural movements or minority politics. In some aspects, the concepts of fatherhood and patriarchy have historically been linked to this political tradition if we take into account the ethnic roots of these political phenomena. In many cases, the concept of nationalism is evolving from ethnic to rather civic arguments because of the emergence of more civic and progressive pro-independence and autonomist movements.

A great majority of the most successful movements seeking greater decentralization and self-government in Europe have adopted feminism and gender issues as key features of their political discourse and program. After all, feminism, gender issues, environment, social justice, migration and refugees are all issues that are relevant to national and cultural movements.

From a utilitarian and Kantian perspective, the newly elected EFAy Bureau in the General Assembly in Corsica considered that if self-determination, regionalism and minority politics are to become mainstream, supported...
LEADERSHIP AND FEMINISM IN CORNWALL

John Tredinnick-Rowe

Introduction and Hesitations

Before writing this chapter, I will admit to having reservations about the appropriateness of a man writing about the issues of feminism. As such, and with a due sense of humility, I am offering a historical account of the achievements of women in Cornish politics rather than specific feminist issue areas of importance in Cornwall.

The literature that exists on the intersection between nationalism and feminism has largely been confined to post-colonial studies, where the struggle for liberation takes a gendered meaning.1 The exception being the racial interpretations of nationalism in the United States known as Black Nationalism.2 Non-colonial literature on the role of feminism in nationalism can also be found, such as papers that highlight the barriers of nationalist politics to women’s participation in Korean politics,3 the exception being of course when the Korean peninsula was part of Japan’s empire, where: “nationalism and feminism supported each other during the era of Enlightenment and Japanese colonial rule.”4

In short, the intersection between these two subject areas remains complex and varied. The role of feminism in civic nationalism and pro-self-government movements of European stateless nations has been much less explored, with Northern Ireland being perhaps the one exception.5 Although, beyond the legal aspects of how one separates post-colonial

1 Chaudhuri, 1997; West, 1997.
5 Roulston, 1997.

LEDYORESOW HA BENENIETH YN KERNOW

John Tredinnick-Rowe

Hockyansow ha Raglavar

Yth esa own genef dhe seyrfa an chapтра ma yn kever benenieth drefen bos nag esof un benen. An gordhebow yw, eus ewn rag den skrifa war’n materow benenieth? Orth ow bres, an gorthyp yw ea, mes yn gwirionedh, yma hockyansow dhyym. Me a wra yn uwelder profya ow prederow war ledyoresow ha benenieth yn Kernow.

An lian eus war an krowstrogh ynter kenedhlegieth ha benenieth re beu strothys dre vras dhe studhyansow wosa-trevesigel, le may kemmer an strif rag livreson styr a reydh.1 An namm yw an styrlyansow aghel a genedhlegieth y’n Statis Unys aswonnys avel kenedhlegieth dhu.2 Y hyllir kavos ynwedh lien di-trevesigel war an rol a venenieth yn omsavow kenedhlegieth, an paperyow ma a wolowboynt an lettow a bolitegieth dhe gemeryans rann benenes yn politegieth,3 an namm ow pos heb mar pan esa an konna tir Korea rann a emperoureth Nihon, le may hwrug: “kenedhlegieth ha benenieth …. an ey skoodhya y ben dres an osweyth a Wolowyans ha rewlyans trevesigel nihonék.”4

War verr lavalow, an krowstrogh ynter an dhow arenebedh testen ma a dirg kompleth ha varys. Rol benenieth y’n genedhlegieth vurjesek ha movyans governans owrewl a gwlasow distat europek re beu leskewthy le hwthrlys, gans Iwerdhon Gledh martesen ow pos an unn namm.5 Byttegyns, dres an gwedhow laghel a fadet dhiberthir statys wosa-trevesigel

1 Chaudhuri, 1997; West, 1997.
5 Roulston, 1997.
and non-post-colonial states, the issue remains vague in territories such as Northern Ireland with such a long history of British rule. As such, it is a timely moment to explore this issue in relation to Cornwall and other stateless nations with unique national identities grounded in culture, language and history.

Historical Labour Division in Cornwall

In the first instance, the dominant cultural and historical aspects of life in Cornwall such as farming, fishing and mining may make the cultural space of Cornwall look masculine. Indeed, when one thinks of the popular pastimes of rugby, wrestling, gig rowing and male choirs a similar pattern appears to emerge. However, under further investigation industries such as mining and fishing were not as male dominated as one might suppose. Take for example the Bal Maidens, who broke rock on the surface of the mines, shown in Figure 1.

Figure 1 shows that while the work was segregated with the women working on the surface and the men underground, industries such as mining were not an exclusively male activity. Similarly, in the fishing industry women were the main workers on land responsible for salting and processing the fish, taking them to market and mending the nets as famously depicted by the artist Stanhope Forbes. This, however, is not so much a victory for gender equally but as a consequence of poverty and limited job opportunities, forcing many who could do manual labour to do so regardless of gender.

Cornish Nationalism and Feminism

Similar tropes emerge when one considers the contemporary participation in political life in Cornwall. Whilst politics in Cornwall as elsewhere can be seen as antagonistic and perhaps overly masculine in character, the nationalist movement in Cornwall seems to have been less effected by such anachronisms.

For example, the leading nationalist party in Cornwall Mebyon Kernow, a progressive left-of-centre party based on values of social justice, environ-

---

6 Cornwall Museums, 2016.

---

ha di-post-trevesigel, an mater a drig diskler yn tiedrhog kepar hag Iwerdhon Gledh gans istori mar hir a rewlyans bretennek. Avel hemma, yth yw pols a-dermyn dhe hwithra an mater ma perthynek dhe Gernow ha gwasow distat erel. Gans honaniethow kenedhlek unyk, grondys yn yeth, gonisogeth hag istori.

Rannans Lavur Istorek yn Kernow

Yn kynsa gweyth, an gwedhow istorek ha gonisogethel gwarthevyek a vewnans yn Kernow kepar hag ammeth, pyskessa, ha balweyth a yll gul heveli gorow an spas gonisogethel a Gernow. Yn hwir pan brederir a wario wgerinek a rugbi, omdowl, revya skath hir, an keuryow mebyon, patron hevelep a omdhiskwedh dos yn-mes. Byttegyns, yn-dann hwithrans pella, diwsyansow kepar ha balweyth ha pyskessa nyns o mar warthevys gorow dell yllir y dhesoves. Kemeryn rag ensampel Myrghes an Bal, neb a derri men war enep an balyow, diskwedhys yn Figur 1.

---

Figure 1 – Bal Maiden’s from the mid-1800s, Source: London (2014)

Figure 1 – Myrghes an Bal dhyworth kres an 1880ow. Pennfenten: Loundres (2014)

Figur onan a dhiskwedh kyn feu ober dibertyhs gans an benenes owth oberi war an enep ha’n gwer yn-dann dor, diwsyansow kepar ha balieth nyns mental protection and Cornish identity, language and heritage, had founder members who were women.7 Equally, on the day of the party’s creation in 1951, the party chose to elect Helena Charles as the organisation’s chairperson,8 which for the cultural standards of the 1950s was highly irregular. Helena went on to be heavily involved in the Cornish Gorsedh movement taking the bardic name Maghteth Boudycca (‘Daughter of Boudicca’).

Also present in 1951 was another founding member Ann Trevenen Jenkin, who amongst many other areas of note became the first female Grand Bard of the Cornish Gorsedh from 1997 until 2000.9 Her daughter, Dr Loveday Jenkin perhaps in some way preceded this success in political terms by becoming the leader of Mebyon Kernow in 1990 until 1997. Such phenomena indicate that women have not been inhibited from participating in nationalistic political movements in Cornwall nor have they been hindered in becoming leaders of them.

In the wider political milieu, the story is not quite as reassuring, if one looks at the current gender split in the largest political body in Cornwall. In the Cornwall Council, elected representatives are still 75% male, with only one political party in the Council currently having elected a female leader. Exactly why the council is not more representative of the general population of Cornwall remains opaque and largely open to speculation.

From a cultural perspective, the Cornish cultural revival has also not produced any observable barriers to participation based on gender. Gig rowing now produces as many women’s teams as men’s.10 The re-birth of Cornish culture has also had a large musical and dance component to it, neither activity having any structural or institutional bias related to gender. By their very nature traditional troyls and dances were community events designed to encourage participation and bonding, the very opposite of exclusion.11

Cornwall is also distinctive in comparison to other stateless nations because women leaders tended to act as role models pursuing general

8 Ibid.
10 World Pilot Gig Championships, 2015.
11 Davey, 1983.

8 Ibid.
10 World Pilot Gig Championships, 2015.
11 Davey, 1983.
issues in relation to nationalist issues, rather than picking a specific cause e.g. abortion or the gender pay gap. The only exception being the organisation of feminist protests in reaction to the election of President Trump.12

There have been other protests more recently, such as ‘Reclaim the Night’ organised by the Cornish branch of the Women’s International League for Peace and Freedom in Penzance in November 2016 to mark the International Day for the Elimination of Violence against Women. Speeches, songs and performances raised awareness about gender-based violence with the hope of making streets safer for women and securing more government funding for refuges for women and children experiencing domestic violence.14

12 Sanghani, 2017.

Y’n kres politek ledanna, ny wra ri an hwedhel poran kemmys a fastheans, mar mirir orth an gansran reydh a-res y’n brassa korf politek yn Kernow (Konsel Kernow), an kanasow etholy yw hwath 75% gorow, gans unn parti politek yn unnik y’n Konsel a-res neb re dhewisas ledyores. Poran prag nag yw an konsel moy kanasek a’n poblans kemmys a Gernow a drig diskler, ha dre vras ygor dhe resnans.

Dhyworth gologva wonisogethek, an dasserghyans gonisogethek kernewek ny askorras naneyl lettys aspiadow dhe gemeryans rann, selys war reydh. Revya skathow-hir lemmyn a askor kemmys a barys benenes es an re na a’n wer.15 An dastinethyans a wonisogeth kernewek ynwedh re gavas kerann ilowek ha dosnya meur dhodho, nyus eus gans unn gwrianz po y gila ragnveus framweythes po fondyansel perthyn a dhe reydh. Der aga natur pur, troylyow hengovek ha dosnyow o hvarvosow kemenethek desinys dhe genethera kemeryans rann ha kevrenna, an kontrari pur a ekskludyans.16

Kernow yw diblans ynwedh herwydh pow heb-statow erel drefen bos by ledyoresow yu semblant role modelys, ow hwilas rag achesonyow kenedhleigeth jeneral. Yn y le, ow dewis materow arbennek h.e. dyffrans reydh-pe. Marnas an keskerdh benenieth erbynn Etholans Lewydh Trump.17

Despit hemma, yth esa keskerdh erel a-genows kepar ha ‘Reclaim the Night’ restris gans an skorren Kernow a’n Benenes Kesunyans Keswlasék rag Frankedh ha Kres yn Pensans, mis Du, 2016, dhe merkya an Dydh Keswlasék rag an Dileans a Garowerd erbynn Benenes. Areyhow, kanow ha kesilowyow ynkressis skians -adro dhe arowder reydh, rag salowhe an stretw ha gwaynya pygans rag foesygyon, fleghes, ha benenes gans freudh.18

15 Kampyoriethow Skath hir Lewyador an By, 2015.
16 Davey, 1983.
17 Sanghani, 2017.
18 Gainey, 2016.
Observations

In Cornwall gender issues remain, in both political life and elsewhere. However, the issues seem to me largely non-existent in the nationalist movement right from the beginning up to the present day. The reasons for this remain to be determined, but if there is any concordance between devolution movements and post-colonial movements it might be that, those wishing to be liberated from a central power (colonial or otherwise) comprehend the wider issues of gender, national and racial liberation. One possible explanation for this could be that in Cornwall such issues are more closely linked to social class than gender, as hooks relates:

"Concurrently, they know that many males in their social groups are exploited and oppressed. Knowing that men in their groups do not have social, political, and economic power, they would not deem it liberatory to share their social status. While they are aware that sexism enables men in their respective groups to have privileges denied them, they are more likely to see exaggerated expressions of male chauvinism among their peers as stemming from the male's sense of himself as powerless and ineffectual in relation to ruling male groups, rather than an expression of an overall privileged social status." 15

This is not to say that politics in Cornwall is not adversarial and tainted with elements of machoism as the gender divide in Cornwall Council demonstrates. However, whilst this has dissuaded some, it clearly has not been a barrier to others. Whilst many feminist studies quite rightly highlight injustices that women and other genders face, it is also important to celebrate the successes. Too often gender politics fails to engage with a positive message, but it can be found in the civic nationalist movements calling for self-government and cultural recognition in Cornwall, from its inception up to the current day.

15 1984, 18.
himself as powerless and ineffectual in relation to ruling male groups, rather than an expression of an overall privileged social status.\(^{14}\)

Nyns yw hemma dhe dherivas nag yw politek yn Kernow eskarel ha mostys gans elvennow a wourylieth kepar dell dhiskwedh an rannans reydh yn Konsel Kernow. Mes kyn hwrug hemma disswadiya nebes, kler yw na veu lett dhe’n re erel. Kyn hwołowboynt yn ewn lies studhyans benenieth an anjustisyow hag a eneb benenes ha reydhow erel, yth yw posek ynwenn dhe solempnya an sewenys. Re venowgh politek reydh a fyll omworra gans messaj posedhek, mes y hyllir y gavos y’n omsavow kenedhlek vurjesek ow kelwel rag omrewl hag aswonvos gonisogeth yn Kernow dhyworth y dhalleth bys y’n jydh hedhyw.

\(^{14}\) 1984, 18.
Bibliography

— AMNESTY INTERNATIONAL. “Female refugees face physical assault, exploitation and sexual harassment on their journey through Europe”. London, 18 January 2016. Available at: www.amnesty.org

— ANONYMOUS. 2017. “My little children were detained because of a toy gun. Prevent has gone too far”. Published in The Guardian on 1 February. Available at: https://www.theguardian.com/commentisfree/2017/feb/01/children-detained-toy-gun-prevent-strategy

— “Bruselas ve “inviable” tramitar el asilo en Embajadas fuera del territorio de la UE, como propone Unidos Podemos”. In Expansion, 19 June 2016. Available at: www.expansion.com

— EUROPEAN PARLIAMENT. “Report on the situation of women refugees and asylum seekers in the EU”. Brussels, 10 February 2016. Available at: www.europarl.eu

— FIJKRI. “Binary or Blank: Germany Allows Parents to Refrain From Gender Assignment at Birth”. Autostraddle on 19th of August 2013. Available at: https://www.autostraddle.com/binary-or-blank-germany-allows-parents-to-refrain-from-gender-assignment-at-birth-191097/

— FORAN, Clare. 2013. “How to design a city for women”. Published on 26 September in CityLab. Available at: https://www.citylab.com/

— GUTIERREZ, Thaís. “Creix el nombre de noies en risc de patir ablació a Catalunya”. In Diari ARA, 1 February 2014. Available at: www.ara.cat

— Hosie, Rachel. “Celebrity feminists are making people care less about women’s rights, study claims”, The Independent on 26th of November 2016. Available at: http://www.independent.co.uk/life-style/celebrity-feminists-are-making-people-care-less-about-women-s-rights-study-claims-a7439266.html

— Immonen, Olli. 2015. Facebook-update. Available at: https://www.facebook.com/olli.immonen.3/posts/10534383090174847

— Institut National de la Statistique et des Études Économiques. Available at: http://www.insee.fr/fr/

— Independent Press Standards Organisation. 2016. “IPSO upholds complaint that Sun article was significantly misleading”. Available at: https://www.ipso.co.uk/news-press-releases/press-releases/IPSO-upholds-complaint-that-sun-article-was-significantly-misleading/

— Item 12- Integration of the human rights of women and the gender perspective: Violence Against Women and “Honor” Crimes”. In Human Rights Watch, 5 April 2001. Available at: www.hrw.org

— Kacpura, Krystyna. “This victory on abortion has empowered polish women - we’ll never be the same”. The Guardian, 6th of October, 2016: https://www.theguardian.com/commentisfree/2016/oct/06/victory-abortion-rights-empowered-polish-women

— Kim, Kyung-Ai. 1996b. “Nationalism: An advocate of, or a barrier to, feminism in South Korea”. Women’s Studies International Forum, 19(1), 65-74. doi: http://dx.doi.org/10.1016/0277-5395(95)00063-1

— León, Jaime. “El país que asesina a las mujeres por la dote y aborta a las niñas”. In El Confidencial, 7 November 2013. Available at: www.elconfidencial.com

— London, Pete. 2014. “That was the West that was... Bal Maidens”. Western Morning News. Available at: http://www.westernmorningnews.co.uk/west-bal-maidens/story-22767053-detail/story.html

— Masson, Ursula. 2003. “‘Hand in hand with the women, forward we will go’: Welsh nationalism and feminism in the 1890s”. Women’s History Review 12 (3).
— MCHUGH, Jess. “Refugee women are carrying more than an uncertain future”. In International Bussines Times, 6 April 2016. Available at: www.ibtimes.com

— “Mujeres refugiadas y solicitantes de asilo en la Unión Europea”. In Plataforma Cedaw Sombra España, 23 April 2016. Available at: cedawsombraesp.wordpress.com

— NAVARRO, Beatrix. “Premio Sajarov para dos esclaves sexuales del Estado Islámico, defensores de la minoría yazidi”. In La Vanguardia, 27 October 2016. Available at: www.lavanguardia.com

— OXFORD, University Archives. 2007. “The first woman graduate of the University”. Available at: http://www.oua.ox.ac.uk/enquiries/first_woman_graduate.html

— “Remarks by Commissioner Dimitris Avramopoulos at the round table on Addressing vulnerabilities of refugees and migrants on their journeys from their countries of origin to their countries of arrival at the UN Migration Summit”. In European Comission, 19 September 2016. Available at: www.europa.eu

— SAVE THE CHILDREN. “Índice de oportunidades para las niñas”. October 2016. Available at: www.caveluchildren.es

— SMITH, Mikey. 2015. “No, 1 in 5 British Muslims doesn’t have sympathy with ISIS - here’s why”. Published on 23 November in The Mirror. Available at: http://www.mirror.co.uk/news/uk-news/no-1-5-british-muslims-6882598

— STANFORD. 2010. “How Gender Stereotypes Influence Emerging Career Aspirations”. Available at: https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=jwviTwO8MQ

— UNITED NATIONS HIGH COMMISSIONER FOR REFUGEES. “Guidance note on refugee claims relating to Female Genital Mutilation”. Geneva, May 2009. Available at: www.unhchr.org

— VIHAMUKI (“Hate mug”). Tumblr page: http://vihamuki.tumblr.com

— WORLD PILOT GIG CHAMPIONSHIPS. 2015. Race Results. Available at: http://www.worldgigs.co.uk/past-results.html

INTERVIEWS
— Estela Pareja, director of the Catalan Comission for the help of refugees (CCAR). Interviewed on October 14th, 2016.
— Rosa Cendón, advocacy coordinator, SICAR. Interviewed on October 24th, 2016.
The European Parliament recognized the Centre Maurits Coppieters (CMC) as a political foundation at a European level in 2007. Since then, Coppieters has developed political research focused on European issues in the fields of multilevel governance, management of cultural and linguistic diversity in complex (multi-national) societies, self-determination, decentralization, state and constitutional reform, conflict resolution and protection of human rights.

So far, every step has been important to the steady consolidation and growth of the Centre. That is why I am especially proud of this publication. Indeed, it undoubtedly represents a crucial contribution to the current state of affairs and will certainly have an impact, both in academia and among European decision-makers, as well as think tanks and other contributors to the European integration process.

On behalf of Coppieters and our partners, I sincerely wish to thank the authors for their analytical and thorough approach to the subject and their passionate, conceptually robust, well-structured and factual presentations. Finally, I also wish to thank you (the reader) for your interest in our organization and for reviewing our contribution to a Europe-wide political debate.

Günther Dauwen
Secretary of Centre Maurits Coppieters

www.ideasforeurope.eu

GOALS OF THE CENTRE MAURITS COPPIETERS

In accordance with its Statute, the Centre Maurits Coppieters asbl-vzw pursues the following objectives:

- Observing, analysing and contributing to the debate on European public policy issues with a special focus on the role of national and regional movements and the process of European integration;
- Defending the peoples’ right to self-determination and the democratic respect for the right to decide by the majority of citizens, freely expressed through a consultation or referendum;
- Promoting scientific research, as well as gathering and managing information on the functioning and the history of all national and regional movements in the EU and making the results available to the public;
- Making information available to the public on the implementation of the principle of subsidiarity in a context of a Europe of the Regions;
- Serving as a framework for national or regional think tanks, political foundations and academics working together at the European level;
- Maintaining contact with all organisations active in the promotion of self-determination, human rights and diversity and institutions of the EU;
- Developing actions to open (historical) information sources in a structured and controlled way with the aim of building a common data network on issues of civic nationalism and regionalism in Europe.

The Centre Maurits Coppieters asbl-vzw takes all the necessary actions to promote and achieve the higher stated goals, always observing the principles on which the European Union is founded, namely the principles of liberty, democracy, respect for human rights and fundamental freedoms, and the rule of law.
Feminism on the peripheries of Europe

MAURITS COPPIETERS
(SINT-NIKLAAS, 1920 – DEINZE, 2005)

The Fleming Maurits Coppieters studied history and later became a Doctor of Laws and obtained a Master’s degree in East European studies. During the Second World War, he refused to work for the German occupier. After many years as a teacher, he worked as a lawyer for a while. He was one of the people who re-established the Vlaamse Volksbeweging (Flemish People’s Movement), of which he was the President from 1957-1993.

Coppieters’ political career began when he became a member of the Flemish nationalist party Volksunie (VU), which was formed in 1954. With the exception of two years, Coppieters was a town councillor between 1964 and 1983. He was also elected as a member of the Belgian Chamber (1965-1971) and Senate (1971-1979). At the same time, Coppieters became President of the newly formed ‘Cultuurraad voor de Nederlandstalige Cultuurgemeenschap’ (Cultural Council for the Dutch-speaking Community), from which the Flemish Parliament emerged, when the VU formed part of the government. In 1979, Coppieters was elected during the first direct elections for the European Parliament.

As a regionalist, he became a member of the Group for Technical Coordination and Defence of Independent Groupings and Members in the European Parliament (TCDI). Among other things, he made a name for himself when he championed the cause of the Corsicans. In the meantime, Coppieters also played a pioneering role in the formation of the European Free Alliance, of which he became the Honorary President and continued to play a role in its expansion, even after he said farewell to active politics in 1981. In 1996, Coppieters joined forces with the President of the Flemish Parliament, Norbert De Batselier, to promote ‘Het Sienjaal’, a project with a view to achieve political revival beyond the party boundaries. Coppieters died on November 11, 2005.

Among other things, Coppieters was the author of: ‘Het jaar van de Klaproos’; ‘Ik was een Europees Parlementslid’; ‘De Schone en het Beest’.

MEMBERS OF THE CENTRE MAURITS COPPIETERS

- Arritti, Corsica, www.p-n-c.eu
- Fundació Emili Darder, Balearic Islands, www.fundacioemildarder.cat
- Fundació Josep Irla, Catalonia, www.irla.cat
- Fundación Aragonesista 29 de junio, Aragon, www.chunta.org/29j.php
- Fundación Galiza Sempre, Galiza, www.galizasempre.org
- Home of Macedonian Culture, Macedonia, Greece
- Le Peuple Breton, Brittany, www.peuplebreton.net
- Welsh Nationalism Foundation, Wales, welshnationalismfoundation.eu

ASSOCIATED MEMBERS

- Kurdish Institute of Brussels, Belgium, www.kurdishinstitute.be
- CIEMEN – Centre International Escarré per a les Minories Ètniques i Nacions, Catalonia, www.ciemen.org
- Istituto Camillo Bellieni, Sardinia, www.istituto-bellieni.it
- Free State of Rijeka Association, Rijeka – Fiume
Previous Centre Maurits Coppieters studies

CMC 2016 — The Emergence of a Democratic Right to self-determination in Europe
CMC 2015 — Democracy and European Emerging Values: The Right to Decide
CMC 2015 — A Quality Democracy for a New State by Dr. Jaume López
CMC 2014 — Paradiplomacy by Adam Grydehøj, Linda Fabiani, Jordi Solé i Ferrando, Lorena Lopez de Lacaile Aristi and Maria Ackrén
CMC 2013 — An Alternative Economic Governance for the European Union by Xavier Vence, Alberto Turnes, Alba Nogueira. With the collaboration by ICEDE members Oscar Rodil, Brais Yáñez and Jorge Fernández
CMC 2012 — The Future of Europe: An Integrated Youth Approach
CMC 2012 — The Ascent of Autonomous Nations 2nd edition The institutional advantages of being an EU member state, by Matthew Bumford. In a joint effort with the Welsh Nationalism Foundation
CMC 2012 — Variations autour du concept d’empreinte culturelle Définition du concept et métodes de mesure, by Elna Roig Madorran and Jordi Baltà Portolés
CMC 2011 — Approaches to a Cultural Footprint Proposal for the concept and ways to measure it, by Elna Roig Madorran and Jordi Baltà Portolés
CMC 2010 — The Internal Enlargement of the European Union 3rd edition Analysis of the legal and political consequences in the event of secession or dissolution of a Member State, by Jordi Matas, Alfonso Gonzalez, Jordi Jaria and Laura Roman. In a joint effort with Fundació Josep Irla
CMC 2009 — Electoral Contestability and the Representation of Regionalist and Nationalist Parties in Europe by Simon Toubeau
CMC 2008 — A Different Kind of Kinetics Establishing a network of heritage and research institutions for the (historical) study of national and regional movements in Europe, by Luc Boeva

Previous Centre Maurits Coppieters policy papers

CMC 2017 | 1 — The situation of refugee women in Europe, the Spanish state and Catalonia Diagnosis and gaps for improvement, by Helena Castellá
CMC 2016 | 3 — ‘Yes Scotland’ vs ‘Better Together’: How did it all happen? by Carlos Neira Cortízas and Sandrina Ferreira Antunes
CMC 2016 | 2 — Europe: A Dream & A Project by Bernat Joan i Mari
CMC 2015 | 3 — Language, Identity & Power. What Future for Minority Languages in Europe?
CMC 2015 | 2 — Cross-border Cooperation and Cultural Communities in Europe by Jordi Bált Portolés
CMC 2015 | 1 — Which Federalism for Europe? by Antonello Nasone and Attilio Pinna
CMC 2014 | 1 — The Fiscal Balance of Stateless Nations with the EU by Jaume Garau and Félix Pablo
CMC 2013 | 2 — Internationalism vs Globalism by Isidor Mari, Santiago Castellà Surribas and Josep Bargalló. In a joint effort with Fundació Josep Irla
CMC 2013 | 1 — Law and Legitimacy: The Denial of the Catalan Voice by Huw Evans. In a joint effort with the Welsh Nationalism Foundation
CMC 2012 | 3 — Making Ideas Spread New Media, Social Networks, Political Communication, advocacy and campaigns, by Jorge Luis Salzedo Maldonado
CMC 2012 | 2 — The Size of States and Economic Performance in the European Union by Albert Castellanos i Maduell, Elisenda Paluzie I Hernández and Daniel Tirado i Fabregat. In a joint effort with Fundació Josep Irla
CMC 2012 | 1 — 2014-2020 Un autre cadre financier pluriannuel pour une nouvelle Europe Pour une Europe des peuples, by Roccu Garoby. In a joint effort with Arritri
CMC 2011 | 3 — From Nations to Member States by Lieven Tack, Alan Sandry and Alfonso Gonzalez
CMC 2011 | 2 — Diversité linguistique: Un défi pour l’Europe
CMC 2011 | 1 — Tourism and Identity by Marien André. In a joint effort with Fundació Josep Irla
CMC 2010 | 1 — Language Diversity: A Challenge for Europe