999 Emergency image

Located within Figure 5, manuscript page 27.

- Google images links to <https://firstaidforlife.org.uk/dial-999/> but that page does not show the above image so it has not been possible to contact the source or determine copyright status.
- Yahoo search has <https://firstaidforlife.org.uk/wp-content/uploads/2019/01/999-photo.jpeg> for the image but there is no copyright information on the page. Yahoo images also links the same image to <https://zaharibb.com/2014/04/26/hello-999/> and <https://www.newsx.com/about-us/> but the image is not on that page, and a cropped version of the same image on <https://yourgrange.co.uk/when-to-call-999/> No copyright information or originator information on any of these pages.

A&E Emergency Department Image

Located within Figure 5, manuscript page 27.

Source:

- Yahoo and Google images have the source as <https://www.guysandstthomas.nhs.uk/our-services/emergency-care/accident-and-emergency.aspx> but the image doesn't appear on that page so no copyright information available.

Call 111 image:

Located within Figure 5, manuscript page 27.

Source:

- Google has the source as <https://www.northumberlandccg.nhs.uk/your-health/nhs-111/> but the image doesn't appear on that page.
- Yahoo has the source as <https://healthwatchderbyshire.co.uk/2021/01/think-you-need-to-go-to-ae-call-nhs-111-first/> but it isn't on that page either.

If this image needs to be changed, the following is in the public domain (however the call 111 image is more appropriate for this manuscript):
